Iris Sawalha

Iris Sawalha is the Regional Lead for the Data and Results Unit at the UN Women Regional Office of Arab States. Iris has more than 17 years of experience working for the United Nations, leading the development and implementation of data systems. She has been with UN Women since 2018, her role is to expand UN Women's knowledge base on accelerators and drivers impacting programmes and the establishment of a regional Gender Equality and Women Empowerment (GEWE) center of excellence. In her most recent capacity, Iris led the development of two regional platforms, that advance on gender statistics. She has led the development of Gentrack and track-it. Iris speaks Arabic, English, Italian, and French. Iris has a Masters's degree in Management of Development, from the University of Turin, Italy.